

DURING THE FLOOD - People are displaced to higher ground.

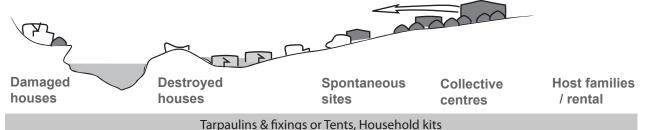

Tarpaulins & fixings or Tents, Household kits

Camps only where absolutely necessary

Note: Spontaneus sites includes dispersed shelter where one or two familes settle on elevated land near their houses. Camps require significant resources and can increase the challenges in return and recovery.

RETURNS BEGIN

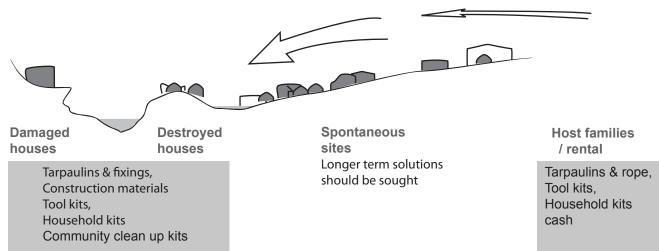

Tents not required for houses that can easily be repaired, nor for collective centres.

Tool kits and Community clean up kits for damaged houses.

Collective centres rehabilitated.

Cash and vouchers should be considered where local markets are able to support the needs.

RETURNS CONTINUE - Some people have lost their land and are unable to return.

As returns continue:

- Most people move to the land where their damaged or destroyed house was.
- Collective centres and many spontaneous camps close. sites and buildings are rehabilitated.
- Organisations consider transitional shelter as support.

Livelihoods support
Advocacy
Public information

Targetting of vulnerable individuals

Damage assessments e Displacement tracking Coordination

nts Analysis of gender differences and needs

Monitoring and review